People Are Talking

We've been using [Terra Dotta Software] at Dartmouth for several years. [It] has surpassed our initial expectations and keeps getting better. We continually identify new ways to use the software to better serve our students and faculty. With a small staff and a high level of student interest in study abroad, StudioAbroad is

Erica Masten: Client Support Manager

As Terra Dotta's Client Support Manager, Erica's hard work over the past four years has made her an indispensable component of the Terra Dotta team. Whether she is maintaining the TDU support portal, handling client cases, or helping develop training services, Erica maintains a steady work-ethic that improves both the projects she works on, and the people with whom she works.

While completing a BA in International Studies at UNC-Chapel Hill, she spent semesters abroad in Perth, Bangkok, and Xalapa. After graduation, Erica went abroad again, spending eighteen months teaching English as a Second Language in the Dominican Republic.

When Erica is not working for Terra Dotta, she enjoys yoga, reading historical fiction, exploring all the local cuisine the town of Durham has to offer, and even drinking the occasional glass of cava. In the fall, she plans to pursue an MBA at the UNC Kenan-Flagler School of Business.

Collaboration Across Campus: Making the Connection to College and University Legal Counsel and Risk Managers

By: Gary Rhodes Ph.D., Director
SAFETI Clearinghouse, Center for Global Education at UCLA

This month's article focuses on the importance of steady interaction between study abroad offices and their university legal counsel and risk managers, particularly during short, low-campus population, terms like Summer and January.
